Happy New Year! Where did 2015 go? I am sure we have all made our New Year Resolutions by now and many of us have broken them by this time. Speaking of looking into 2016, the Chamber Board will be holding a brainstorming meeting in the near future. We welcome any suggestions on how we can improve. You might note how we are working with you now, what changes we can make to communicate better, what expectations we have or have not met.

You may e-mail these to me at kathyduman1@gmail.com or to director@madraschamber.com or drop off your suggestions at the Chamber Office. We are looking forward to a fun and rewarding year and wish the best to everyone in 2016!
We all hear ‘Where did the year go’ or ‘Time is going faster and faster’ or ‘I cannot believe it is already (put in the date)’. I heard them from businesses through out the year and reflecting on these comment’s, they were always followed with a positive conversation and continued optimism.

On behalf of our businesses and communities, the Chamber will be hitting 2016 with great optimism. We have solid annual events to promote through our website, tourism exhibits outside of our county, Central Oregon Visitor Association media and now, our up and running River Canyon Country tourism program representing Crook and Jefferson County. This is along with the multitude of conversations with visitors at the Chamber and requested mailings for information on relocation and tourist information.

Personally my optimism comes from you. The business owner, the long term employee, the community activist and our new comers to the area. The Chamber has many hats to function under and is pulled in a multitude of directions. Without your thoughts, input and discussions I could not be effective nor energetic in meeting your Chambers objective. They are always welcomed and are highly valuable.

You will be reading this about six days into the new year and not quite ready to ‘wonder where did the year go’. You maybe wondering where to take the year to. Grab onto 2016 with vigor, vitality and optimism while appreciating where you live and work while enjoying the positive attributes of your community.

HAPPY NEW YEAR from your Chamber staff, Helen and Joe.

“Chamber’s Wandering Mystery Camera Clip”…

See last month’s Clip on Page 9 in Member Spotlight.

Congratulations to Amanda Collver with Columbia Bank for the lucky draw of the Mystery Camera Clip in the December Newsletter. Good Luck to you in your quest of finding the Mystery Clip in this month’s issue.

The “Wandering Mystery Camera Clip” will be a picture of part of a member’s business, or a place, which will be located somewhere in Jefferson County. We may or may not, give a hint each time, where the business or place is located.

Our purpose is that you are more aware of what and where our member businesses are located. When you look at the photo in the newsletter and recognize the place of business, call us with the name and location of the business or place featured.

GOOD LUCK!

The first 10 caller’s names will be put in a pot & the winner will be drawn from those names for the free business card ad in next month’s Newsletter. We will announce the winner in our next month’s newsletter.

Our “Wandering Mystery Camera Clip” business this month is a place that gets you back on the road again.....hmmm’?? Put your thinking caps on..........

Community & Chamber Events
The dream of a tribal museum for the Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon began over four decades ago. In 1968, the tribal leadership and community recognized that private collectors or off reservation institutions were buying much of their material culture. Soon thereafter, the Tribes began to allocate $50,000 every year for the purchase of artifacts from individual tribal members and families of the Warm Springs community.

The collection that was made includes family heirlooms, trade items from other tribes, bestowed gifts and keepsakes that have been passed on from generation to generation making the collection one of the best and most complete material collections owned by an Indian tribe. In addition to artifacts, The Museum’s collection boasts 5,000 photographs dating from the 1850’s to the present. The third component of the collection consists of important tribal documents and many books on a wide range of subjects on American Indian history, art and culture.

The support of the Warm Springs community and the commitment behind The Museum are the hallmarks of the project. The Tribes began focused planning for The Museum in 1987 with the hiring of its first executive director. In October 1988, tribal members voted to appropriate $2.5 million for Museum construction. The Tribes then added over $726,498 making their total contribution $3,226,493. In the fall of 1988, the Tribes raised an additional $3.1 million from foundations, corporations and individuals for the construction, education program and museum endowment. The total project cost $7,728,900. The Museum was the first tribal museum in the state of Oregon.

Stastny & Burke Architecture of Portland, Oregon designed the building and permanent exhibit was designed by Formations, Inc., also of Portland. Construction began May 7, 1992 by S.M. Andersen Construction, Inc. of Portland. The grand opening celebration was March 14, 1993.

The Museum At Warm Springs is intended to preserve the history and traditions of the Confederated Tribes of the Warm springs Reservation of Oregon. The Museum is both a gesture of welcome to the general public and a conservatory for ancient and revered traditions. Located on Highway 26, The Museum is arranged to resemble a traditional encampment among the cottonwoods along Shitike Creek in the Deschutes River Canyon. It is intended to be a place in harmony with the natural environment and the natural materials used in the building’s construction reflect the surroundings and traditions of the Tribes. Native stone, heavy timber and brick are all finely detailed to demonstrate the integration of art into everyday life. Meaningful symbols that are used by the Tribes, such as the drum, dance costume bustles and patterns from Klickitat baskets are integrated into the architecture.

The Museum has an exceptional Gift Shop which carries one-of-a-kind, collectible art work made by Warm Springs artists. A fine assortment of Pendleton merchandise, books, CDs and delicious huckleberry products are available.

The Museum is open Tuesday through Saturday from 9:00am to 5:00pm and closed on Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Years.
